WELCOMING REMARKS

By Ms. Gloria Kabonga, Board Chairperson

> "ZAMCOPS belongs to its members."

Our Guest of Honour, representatives of Government and cooperating institutions, fellow Board Members, Management and Staff of ZAMCOPS, distinguished guests and our valued members.

Good morning. It is my great pleasure to welcome you all to the 2026 Annual General Meeting of the Zambian Music Copyright Protection Society.

Allow me to sincerely thank our members, especially those who have travelled from different parts of the country, for making time to attend this important gathering. Your presence demonstrates your continued interest in the affairs of our Society.

An Annual General Meeting is more than a constitutional requirement. It is an opportunity to reflect on our performance, account for our decisions and contribute to the future of our institution.

ZAMCOPS belongs to its members. Its strength depends on the work of the Board and Secretariat, as well as the active participation of the people it represents.

I therefore encourage everyone to take part in today's discussions with openness, mutual respect and a shared commitment to the interests of our Society.

To our invited guests and cooperating institutions, thank you for joining us. I also thank my fellow Board Members, Management and Staff for their service, and our members for their continued support.

I trust that our deliberations will be productive and that we will leave with a clearer understanding of the work ahead.

Once again, I warmly welcome you all. Thank you, and may God bless you.

Ms. Gloria H.K Kabonga ESQ
Chairperson, ZAMCOPS

MS. GLORIA KABONGA · BOARD CHAIRPERSON

IN MEMORIAM

We observe a moment of silence for all our colleagues who passed on since our last AGM, and all others who may have passed on without the information reaching the Secretariat.

Mr. Chali Bravo Mulalami

May their souls rest in peace.

CHAIRPERSON'S REPORT

By Ms. Gloria Kabonga, Board Chairperson

> "Members are entitled to know what we have done about it."

1. INTRODUCTION

Distinguished members, fellow Board Members, Management and invited guests, I present the Chairperson's Report for the period under review.

The purpose of this report is to account for the work of our Society, the steps we have taken and the matters that still need attention. Our work is not complete when we identify a problem. Members are entitled to know what we have done about it.

During this period, ZAMCOPS commenced the development of a members' portal, engaged Government on the monetisation of Zambian content, began preparing its Secretariat to understand and use artificial intelligence, and took part in educating members on the Copyright Bill and proposed amendments. These are practical steps, at different stages of implementation, towards improving how we serve and represent our members.

2. ACTION TAKEN DURING THE PERIOD UNDER REVIEW

I wish to draw members' attention to four areas of work. They represent actions undertaken by the Society, not projects being presented as completed before their time.

2.1 DEVELOPMENT OF THE MEMBERS' PORTAL

ZAMCOPS has commenced development of a members' portal as a matter of urgency. The purpose is to improve members' access to information and services and to reduce the difficulties that arise when enquiries and records are handled through disconnected channels.

Development is underway. The Society will communicate the portal's confirmed functions, access arrangements and rollout once these have been established. Members should judge this initiative by the service it ultimately provides, not simply by the announcement of its development.

2.2 ENGAGEMENT WITH GOVERNMENT ON CONTENT MONETISATION

ZAMCOPS is in ongoing engagement with Government on the monetisation of Zambian content. The concern is straightforward: Zambian creative work is being used and enjoyed, and its creators should have a fair opportunity to earn from that use.

These discussions have not been described as a concluded agreement. We will continue to represent the interests of rights holders and report the outcome when concrete arrangements are confirmed.

2.3 SECRETARIAT TRAINING ON ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

The Society is training its Secretariat to understand artificial intelligence and its implications for our industry. We are looking at the practical benefits of AI for administrative work, while also examining the risks it presents for copyright, authorship, the imitation of performers and the unauthorised use of protected works.

Our position is neither to reject technology nor to adopt it without question. Staff must be equipped to recognise its benefits, understand its limitations and exercise proper judgement where creators' rights are involved.

2.4 MEMBER EDUCATION ON THE COPYRIGHT BILL AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

ZAMCOPS took part in educating its members on the Copyright Bill and the proposed amendments. A considerable number of members participated, showing that creators want to understand the laws that govern their work and livelihoods.

This engagement helped bring the legislative discussion closer to the people it affects. It gave members an opportunity to examine the proposals and raise questions. We must continue making room for informed member participation as the legislative process develops.

5. ENGAGEMENT WITH THE INDEPENDENT BROADCASTING AUTHORITY

ZAMCOPS held discussions with the Independent Broadcasting Authority concerning copyright compliance and music used by broadcasters.

The discussions addressed royalty obligations, properly licensed music and cooperation between broadcasters and the Society. Radio and television remain major users of music and important channels for promoting local artists. Promotion, however, cannot replace payment for copyright use.

Accurate music usage records are necessary for identifying works and distributing royalties fairly. Continued cooperation with broadcasting institutions and the Authority is therefore important.

3. COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION AND POLICY DEVELOPMENTS

One of the most important developments during the period under review was the publication of the Copyright and Related Rights Bill, 2025, for stakeholder consultation. The proposed legislation addresses copyright protection, enforcement, collective management and related matters.

The Bill attracted interest across the creative industry because of its implications for the ownership, management and commercial use of creative works. ZAMCOPS publicly called for more time for creators and other stakeholders to study the proposals and submit their views.

The Board recognises the need for copyright legislation that responds to changes in technology and protects rights holders. Reform must also reflect the practical experience of creators and the institutions responsible for administering their rights. The Society should continue to examine proposed changes carefully and participate in appropriate consultations.

4. MUSIC LICENSING AND COPYRIGHT COMPLIANCE

Copyright licensing remains the principal source of revenue for the Society. ZAMCOPS licenses establishments that use copyrighted music commercially, including broadcasters, hotels, restaurants, bars, shops and entertainment venues.

Compliance among music users remains a serious concern. Many radio and television stations have been slow to pay for the music they broadcast, and the weakened economy and load shedding have pushed compliance among other licensees to its lowest. To address this, the Society has engaged the Independent Broadcasting Authority and, following the legal action taken against ZNBC, has extended the same legal route to other media houses that owe it substantial sums.

When commercial users fail to pay, the funds available for distribution to rights holders are affected. Improving compliance requires continued engagement, appropriate enforcement and clear public education. Buying music for personal use does not automatically authorise its commercial public use.

6. COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT AND ORIGINAL WORKS

The unauthorised use of protected musical works remains a concern. ZAMCOPS publicly cautioned artists about using existing musical compositions, including protected melodies and other elements, without proper permission.

Technology has made music production and distribution easier, but it has also increased the need to understand ownership and clearance requirements. The availability of a work online does not mean it can be reproduced or exploited commercially without authorisation.

The Society should continue educating creators on originality, registration, permissions and the importance of accurate records.

7. PROMOTION AND PRESERVATION OF ZAMBIAN MUSIC

ZAMCOPS expressed concern about the declining presence of traditional Zambian music on radio and television. The General Manager observed that traditional local music was receiving less airplay than in earlier years.

The Society also publicly welcomed the Makewane Na Kalindula Festival initiative as an opportunity to renew interest in traditional music. Such efforts can help preserve Zambia's musical heritage and create opportunities for creators.

Greater lawful use of local music can support both cultural preservation and royalty earnings. Broadcasters, event organisers and other music users have an important part to play.

8. EVENTS AND ENGAGEMENTS DURING THE YEAR

Beyond the daily work of licensing, collection and distribution, the year was marked by a number of events and engagements that deserve to be recorded.

23rd Annual General Meeting. Members met at the National Institute of Public Administration (NIPA), Lusaka, on 19 November 2025. At the start of the meeting, they received their allowances and refreshments, a change from previous years, and were invited to share their views on it.

Board Induction. ZAMCOPS held an induction for the members of its Board of Directors, sponsored by CYCORP. I thank them for their support.

PAAGZ IP Intersections. The Board Vice Chairperson, the Head of Documentation and the General Manager joined other stakeholders at the PAAGZ IP Intersections event. Members, including Dr Mathew Tembo, were also in the audience.

Copyright Act consultations. ZAMCOPS delegates took part in the consultations on the amendment of the Copyright Act, alongside other stakeholders.

Khutenga Music launch. ZAMCOPS and ZAM attended the launch of Khutenga Music, a Zambian online music platform. ZAM was represented by our member, KB.

Team-building workshop. ZAMCOPS held a team-building workshop during the year.

World IP Day 2026. ZAMCOPS marked World IP Day 2026 in line with WIPO's theme of IP and sports, taking the celebration outdoors onto the sports field with football, tug-of-war and group warm-up exercises.

Our members. Some of our longest-serving members continued to register their works with the Society. Their example shows that a catalogue built over decades is still worth protecting.

In memoriam. We lost Mr. Chali "Bravo" Mulalami, a music producer, songwriter and founder of Slingbeats Entertainment, who passed away in Lusaka on 3 March 2026. On behalf of the Board, I extend our condolences to his family, friends and the music fraternity.

9. CHALLENGES ENCOUNTERED

The Society continues to face low compliance among commercial users, unauthorised use of works, gaps in usage information and growing technical demands from digital distribution.

Incomplete ownership records can delay payments, while legislative changes require informed participation by creators and their representatives. These issues call for sustained, practical responses rather than general assurances.

10. APPRECIATION

On behalf of the Board, I thank ZAMCOPS members for their support and participation. I acknowledge the cooperation of Government institutions, the Patents and Companies Registration Agency, the Independent Broadcasting Authority and other stakeholders involved in copyright matters.

I also thank the General Manager, the Secretariat and my fellow Board Members for their service to the Society.

11. CONCLUSION

The work before us is clear. We must improve services to members, pursue fair payment for the use of music and ensure that creators have a voice in decisions affecting their rights.

The initiatives reported today are important, but their value will be measured by their results. The Board and Secretariat must continue the work, account for progress and be candid about what remains outstanding.

I thank members for their participation and submit this report for consideration by the Annual General Meeting.

Ms. Gloria H.K. Kabonga, Esq.
Chairperson, ZAMCOPS

HIGHLIGHTS OF YEAR

Income for the year 2025/26

K1,330,999

Royalties payable to members

Licensing

The licensing department has continued to operate under a lot of challenges, especially with the ailing economy which has pushed compliance to its lowest.

To many of our licensees, load shedding has disturbed their operational capacity, forcing them to reduce their working hours. As such we have had to experience delays and, in most cases, complete refraining to pay for the copyright licence, citing poor overall business performance.

The department has further been confined to the CBD in its licensing activities and coverage owing to lack of adequate transportation. This challenge has limited the scope and efficiency of our licensing activities across the country.

While these obstacles have had an adverse impact on our collections under the year of review, I'm glad to report that as a team, we have intensified our efforts to address them and made several engagements with key stakeholders aimed at overcoming the long outstanding hurdles that have plagued us for too long.

Finance

Income for the year 2025/2026 stood at K1,289,225 as reported in the financial report. While this figure is not anywhere near our market potential, you will no doubt appreciate the effort from the team in collecting and keeping us afloat.

Sensitization

ZAMCOPS has had an active share in disseminating copyright information to the general public at every given opportunity.

Partnering with strategic industry players like PACRA, NAC and PAAGZ, we featured on many fora, platforms, workshops and media engagements, and ran sensitization programmes to educate members on copyright and the current legislative status.

Documentation & Distribution

The department has recorded notable strides in maintaining, improving and storing our metadata. We can now boast of leveraging available technology to attain efficiency in monitoring and capturing accurate usage data from media institutions that provide a basis for distributing what we collect.

All our processes, from registration to distribution, are now fully digitized and we are able to serve our esteemed members better and faster than before. I'm proud to inform you that the upgrade of our Documentation & Distribution software is complete, and our membership has significantly increased as a result.

Despite the highlighted challenges in our overall collections, royalties payable to members stood at K1,330,999 as at 31 March 2026.

Legal

MEDIA HOUSES

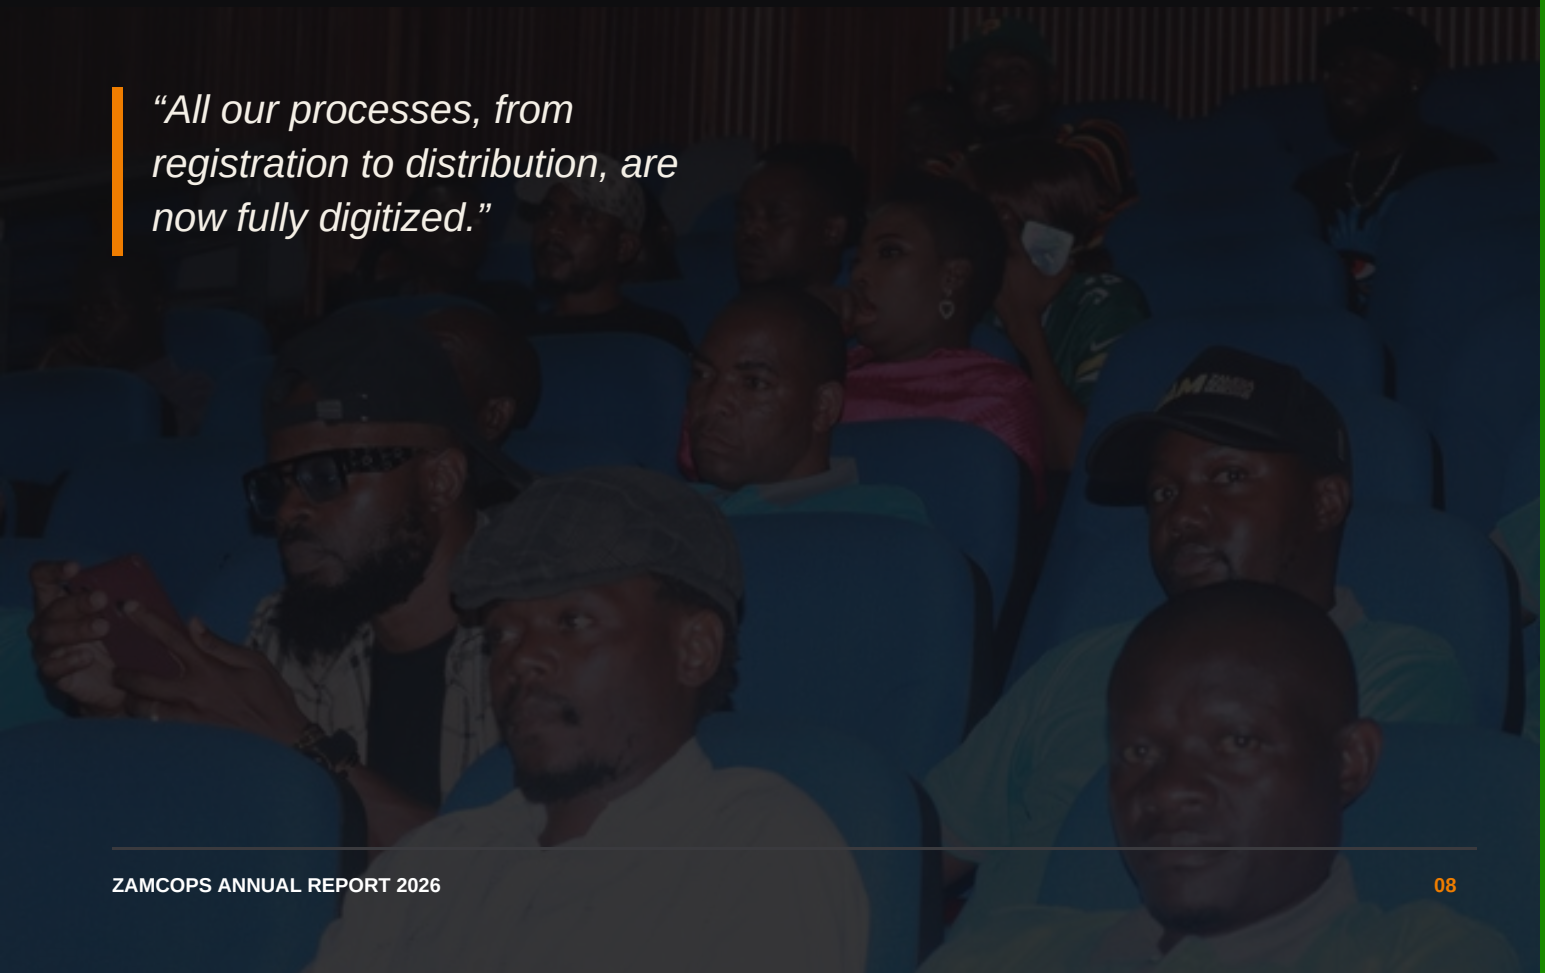

Following the stringent measures taken by the Society to collect the monies owed by ZNBC, we have extended the same legal route to the other media houses that owe the Society colossal sums, engaging our lawyers to start taking legal action against them.

LEGISLATION

While we had felt we had done enough to get the review of the Copyright and Performance Rights Act No. 44 of 1994 and Amendment No. 25 of 2010 under way, we seriously lament the slow pace in amending the Act or formulating a statutory instrument. We are not slowing down in our push.

> "All our processes, from registration to distribution, are now fully digitized."

The Push for a New Copyright Act

ZAMCOPS has partnered with PAAGZ, the lobbyist experts who have helped organize several key institutions and held symposiums and discussions to find quicker ways of pushing the Government for the urgent review of the Act.

Taking advantage of the Copyright Fund team from COSOMA, Malawi, that visited our country for the business summit, ZAMCOPS was able to spearhead engagements with key ministries — the Ministry of Youth, Sport and Arts; the Ministry of Commerce, Trade and Industry; and the Ministry of Technology and Science, where the team from Malawi and ourselves met the Minister to lobby for his support to speed up amending the Act, or to formulate a Statutory Instrument that would compel all music users to pay copyright royalties promptly and introduce the Private Copy Remuneration Levy (blank media levy) in our legislation.

Current status: PACRA opened public comments on the Copyright and Related Rights Bill in January 2026, with an original deadline of 31 January 2026. The deadline was extended to 31 March 2026. Submissions were made by EIFL, IFLA and the Geneva Centre on Knowledge Governance (joint), and by IFRRO and CISAC.

All these efforts and initiatives require our collective minds, connections and influence to bring them to fruition.

With a new cabinet in place, we have a fresh opportunity to engage the new government and the relevant ministries on a new Copyright Act that adequately addresses these challenges.

The same opportunity applies to the blank media levy, which has the potential to economically boost the creative sector and the economy at large.

2.4 CONFIRMATION OF PREVIOUS AGM MINUTES

The minutes of the previous 22nd Annual General Meeting, held on 15 November 2024, were read and confirmed as a true and accurate record by the house and the General Manager, Mr. Siamutondo.

3. Chairperson’s Welcoming Remarks and Highlights of the Annual Report

The Vice Chairperson, Mr. Danny Mwikisa, welcomed all attendees and expressed appreciation for their attendance and continued support of ZAMCOPS. He stated that the report reflected the organisation’s journey, achievements and challenges over the past year. Despite various obstacles affecting the creative sector, ZAMCOPS had continued working towards supporting its members and strengthening the copyright management system. He emphasised the importance of unity, collaboration and innovation in ensuring sustainable growth for the creative industry. He also acknowledged the organisation’s renewed collaboration with partners such as ZAM (Zambia Association of Musicians) in advancing the interests of artists. The presentation was preceded by a moment of silence in honour of members who had passed away since the last AGM.

3.1 LICENSING

The Licensing Department operated under significant challenges during the review period, including:

- The declining economic environment, which reduced compliance and licence payments.
- Load-shedding, which curtailed operational hours and field activities.
- Restricted coverage due to lack of adequate transportation, limiting activities primarily to the Central Business District (CBD).

Despite these constraints, the Society intensified engagement with key stakeholders to address long-standing compliance challenges.

3.2 FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE

While income for the current year declined compared to the prior year, the overall trend over five years demonstrates upward momentum despite operational challenges.

3.3 SENSITISATION AND PARTNERSHIPS

ZAMCOPS actively disseminated copyright information through partnerships with PACRA, NAC, and other forums, workshops, media engagements, and ministry-led programmes.

3.4 DOCUMENTATION AND DISTRIBUTION

The documentation and distribution software upgrade was completed. The Society's processes are now fully digitised, enabling more efficient monitoring, data capture, and royalty distribution. Membership has increased significantly as a result.

3.7 IBA PARTNERSHIP

ZAMCOPS noted an ongoing positive engagement with the Independent Broadcasting Authority (IBA), which was expected to yield improved compliance from radio and television licensees.

3.5 LEGAL ACTION AGAINST NON-COMPLIANT MEDIA HOUSES

Following legal action against ZNBC, demand letters were served to approximately 30 additional non-compliant media houses. Most recipients responded positively following the notices.

3.6 LEGISLATION

ZAMCOPS continued to advocate for the review of the Copyright and Performance Rights Act No. 44 of 1994 (as amended by Act No. 25 of 2010). Efforts included:

- Engaging the Ministry of Youth, Sport and Arts; Ministry of Commerce, Trade and Industry; and Ministry of Technology and Science.
- Hosting delegations from partner organisations including COSOMA (Malawi) to lobby for expedited legislative reform.
- Advocating for the introduction of a blank media levy/private copy remuneration mechanism on imported devices (mobile phones, computers, CDs, etc.).

4. Members' Discussion, Questions and Responses

4.1 CLUBS AND OTHER MUSIC USERS – KALALUKA KAINGU

Mr. Kaingu raised concerns about the collection of royalties from clubs, jukeboxes, and online platforms, noting that these venues are significant consumers of music.

Response: ZAMCOPS confirmed that it licenses clubs and similar establishments. However, enforcement is severely hampered by the absence of adequate provisions in the current Copyright Act. Legal action is costly and inefficient on a case-by-case basis. The amendment of the Copyright Act remains the primary vehicle for enforcing compliance across all music users.

4.2 SENSITISATION AND MEMBER MOBILISATION – JULIET

A member raised concerns about insufficient communication and low attendance at the AGM. She also queried the discrepancy in royalty distribution, with some members having received royalties and others not.

Response: Management acknowledged the communication challenge and undertook to improve outreach mechanisms. On royalties, members were reminded that payments are email-based and require a registered email address. Members were encouraged to update their contact details with the Secretariat. A membership mobile application is under development.

4.3 PIRACY – ERICK CHULU

Mr. Chulu asked about the status of ZAMCOPS' efforts against piracy.

Response: Piracy falls outside ZAMCOPS' direct jurisdiction. The matter is primarily the domain of the Zambia Association of Musicians (ZAM), in cooperation with the Zambia Police Service's dedicated anti-piracy unit.

4.4 DIGITAL ACCESS AND MEMBER ONLINE SERVICES

ZAMCOPS informed members that an online registration system was being developed to enable members to check their accrued royalties, register their works and access statements.

The system would be launched in due course.

4.5 ROYALTY DISTRIBUTION PROCESS – BENBERTO

A member expressed concern about the complexity of the process for receiving royalties and the need to follow up extensively with ZAMCOPS staff.

Response: Management acknowledged the inconvenience caused by the current transitional distribution system and appealed for members' patience as the automated system is refined. A future app will allow seamless access to statements and royalties without manual follow-up.

4.6 BRANCH NETWORK AND PROVINCIAL RADIO COVERAGE – IMALE MPANDE

A member from Southern Province raised concerns about the limited number of radio stations being licensed in provinces, and the lack of ZAMCOPS branches outside Lusaka.

Response: The Society previously maintained offices in Kitwe and Livingstone but closed them due to high operational costs relative to collections. The establishment of provincial branches is contingent on increased revenue, which in turn depends on the amendment of the Copyright Act. ZAMCOPS acknowledged that many provincial radio stations remain non-compliant and reiterated that the IBA partnership is intended to address this.

4.7 ROYALTY CALCULATION METHODOLOGY – FRANK LOMBE

Mr. Frank Lombe raised a concern over how the royalty amounts payable to each artist are determined.

Response: ZAMCOPS explained that royalty calculations are based on the number of airplays per artist, per song, for each given radio or television station. Every licensed station is required to provide a playlist, also known as a log sheet. Members were alerted to the fact that only registered and updated songs qualify for distribution.

4.8 COPYRIGHT ACT AMENDMENT TIMELINE

A member requested a specific timeline for the amendment of the Copyright Act.

Response: The draft bill with all stakeholder submissions is currently before the relevant government ministry. ZAMCOPS urged members to leverage the upcoming election period to pressure Members of Parliament and political leaders to expedite passage of the new Copyright Act. Collective advocacy was identified as the most effective tool available.

4.9 WORKSHOPS AND CAPACITY BUILDING – DAVID MWALE

Mr. Mwale proposed that ZAMCOPS introduce regular artist education workshops across provinces, covering professional conduct, copyright, royalties, and industry standards. He highlighted that inappropriate language in songs reduces radio airplay and consequently royalty earnings.

Response: Management thanked Mr. Mwale for the suggestion and committed to working on a structured workshop programme.

5. Presentation by the Independent Broadcasting Authority (IBA)

Mr. Chileshe of the IBA delivered a presentation on the IBA's mandate and its partnership with ZAMCOPS. Some of the key points were:

- The establishment of the IBA and its Act.
- The IBA's functions and core activities.
- Compliance and enforcement.
- Ethics and content standards.
- The establishment of an IBA–ZAMCOPS framework to improve the royalty payment compliance of media houses.
- The new inclusions in the draft Act that would allow the IBA to regulate online broadcasting.

FINANCIAL QUESTIONS FROM MEMBERS

Frances: Asked about the progress of the proposed blank media levy bill previously submitted to Parliament.

Response: Submissions are with the relevant ministry. ZAMCOPS continues to lobby for fast-tracked passage.

Daniel Phiri: Enquired about the status of the music monitoring software mentioned at the previous AGM.

Response: The monitoring system has been acquired and is fully operational, enabling ZAMCOPS to capture radio station playlists. The challenge of non-compliant stations remains, pending IBA-facilitated enforcement.

6. ADDRESS BY THE GUEST OF HONOUR

Madam Maureen Lupo Lilanda, Board Chairperson of the National Arts Council (NAC), addressed the meeting. Key points from her address included:

• She commended ZAMCOPS members for their attendance and emphasised the importance of the arts to national social and economic development.
• She underscored the need for a strong legal framework to enforce intellectual property rights and ensure meaningful royalty collection.
• She announced that the National Arts Council Act is currently under review and invited artists to provide input during the public consultation process.
• She pledged NAC's commitment to working with ZAMCOPS and ZAM to advance the amendment of the Copyright and Performance Rights Act.
• She called on ZAMCOPS management and the Board to explore deeper regional and global collaborations within the collective management ecosystem, and to subscribe to relevant international treaties.

7. ADDRESS BY THE ZAM PRESIDENT – MR. BRIAN BWEMBYA

Mr. Brian Bwembya, President of the Zambia Association of Musicians (ZAM), addressed the meeting. Key highlights included:

• He emphasised the importance of artist metadata, including the IPI Number, Universal Product Code (UPC), International Standard Recording Code (ISRC), and YouTube Content ID.
• He shared that ZAMCOPS is the source of IPI numbers for Zambian composers, and encouraged all members to request and record their IPI numbers.
• He narrated how metadata enabled international royalty tracking, using a personal example of earning royalties from Scandinavian airplay after obtaining his IPI number.
• He reported that ZAM submitted approximately six Zambian artists for consideration at the 2024 Grammy Awards, noting that metadata gaps were the primary obstacle to broader participation.
• He encouraged veteran artists to monetise their back catalogues through digital distribution platforms such as Distrokid, Tune Core, and CD Baby.
• He reinforced the importance of strengthening ZAMCOPS as the Society's foundational institution, rather than affiliating with foreign copyright societies.

8. CLARIFICATION: ROLES OF ZAMCOPS AND ZAM

Following a request from members, both the ZAMCOPS Chairperson and the ZAM President clarified the distinction between the two organisations:

ZAMCOPS: Collects and distributes royalties; protects intellectual property rights of registered composers and music creators. Falls under the Ministry of Commerce, Trade and Industry.

ZAM (ZAMBIA ASSOCIATION OF MUSICIANS): Advocates for the general interests and welfare of musicians, DJs, promoters, and industry players. Registered under the National Arts Council Act. Deals with piracy matters in conjunction with law enforcement.

9. Other Business and Suggestions

- Mr. James Sakapula suggested the revival of an industry magazine for artists across the country.
- Mr. Charles Chaunda requested a programme to support and motivate veteran artists.
- A member proposed ZAMCOPS explore satellite service points in high-footfall locations such as shopping malls.
- Board member Mr. James Banda (Redlinso) advised members to always submit music directly to radio station content managers (not individual DJs) to ensure inclusion on official log sheets submitted to ZAMCOPS.
- He also encouraged members to register for their international artist identity numbers with ZAMCOPS.

10. Matters Arising / Action Points

ACTION
Continue engagement with IBA to improve royalty compliance among broadcasting stations
Develop and launch ZAMCOPS membership mobile application
Organise structured artist education workshops across provinces
Intensify advocacy for the amendment of the Copyright and Performance Rights Act

11. Closure

Advancing Accountability, Creative Freedom and Artistic Rights in Zambia

A partner story from the People's Action for Accountability and Good Governance in Zambia (PAAGZ)

The People's Action for Accountability and Good Governance in Zambia (PAAGZ) is a Lusaka-based civil society organisation that was established in 2020 and has been in operation since 2021. PAAGZ works to strengthen governance, accountability, citizen participation and human rights, particularly among women and young people. Its vision is an equitable and inclusive Zambia where citizens exercise their rights and hold institutions accountable. Its mission is to improve governance and service delivery for marginalised groups through the promotion of social accountability and protection of human rights.

OUR PROGRAMMES AND ADVOCACY

PAAGZ implements two core programmes, namely Citizen Engagement for Social Accountability (CESA) and Creative Advocacy and Human Rights (CAHR). Through CESA, PAAGZ strengthens communities' capacity to participate in public decisions, monitor service delivery and demand accountability, including in the management of public resources such as the Constituency Development Fund (CDF). Community dialogues, particularly the Pipoz Parliament sessions, street debates and civic education create opportunities for citizens to engage directly with public officials. Meanwhile, under CAHR, PAAGZ uses poetry, storytelling, artistic performance and other creative approaches to raise awareness of fundamental freedoms, encourage civic participation and advance inclusive policy reform.

ARTISTIC RIGHTS, COPYRIGHT AND EVIDENCE-BASED ADVOCACY

PAAGZ's work in the cultural and creative industries combines research with practical advocacy. Through the Connect for Culture Africa (CfCA) and the Pan-African Network for Artistic Freedom (PANAF) initiatives, both supported by Selam Sweden, PAAGZ has convened artists, creative associations, civil society and government institutions to address artistic freedom, copyright protection, fair remuneration and investment in the sector. Its PANAF symposiums, policy dialogues, capacity-building workshops and arts sustainability engagements have provided platforms to discuss matters of importance to all creatives, such as royalties, intellectual property, artist management, legal literacy and sustainable creative livelihoods.

of Zambia's GDP comes from arts, entertainment and recreation.

ZMW 833.6M

creative-sector tax revenue in 2024, up from ZMW 160.9 million in 2021.

<0.1%

of the national budget goes to arts and culture, against the African Union's 1% benchmark.

Evidence has been central to this engagement. PAAGZ has supported budget tracking, sector consultations and research, including the study on the Economic Contribution of Cultural and Creative Industries to GDP, Employment and Informal Sector Dynamics in Zambia and a status report on the evolution of artistic rights and freedoms under the New Dawn Government. Related evidence indicates that arts, entertainment and recreation account for approximately 0.3% of Zambia's GDP, while creative-sector tax revenue rose from ZMW 160.9 million in 2021 to ZMW 833.6 million in 2024. Yet public investment in arts and culture remains below 0.1% of the national budget, compared with the African Union's 1% benchmark. These findings reinforce the case for recognising creative work as an economic activity deserving effective rights protection and sustained public support.

Through its engagements, PAAGZ has used this evidence to inform dialogue on copyright reform, fair compensation and the conditions artists need to earn from their work. Protecting artistic expression and strengthening copyright systems can support livelihoods, encourage investment and enable the creative sector to contribute more fully to national development.

LOOKING AHEAD

PAAGZ remains committed to working with artists, artist-management organisations such as ZAMCOPS, policymakers and other stakeholders to promote evidence-based reforms, protect creative expression and strengthen opportunities for Zambia's creative professionals.

MATHEW TEMBO

Musician, scholar and ZAMCOPS member since 1999.

Every song tells a story, and every story deserves to be protected.

Dr Mathew Tembo is a musician and scholar whose music career began in 1995 when he studied Music Education at Evelyn Hone College in Lusaka. He later earned a Bachelor's degree in Music Education from the University of Zambia, a Master's in Music Performance from Northern Illinois University, and a PhD in Ethnomusicology from the University of Pittsburgh. He is a lecturer and music researcher at Copperbelt University and has toured Europe, Africa and the United States for concerts, talks and workshops.

Tembo has been a ZAMCOPS member since 21 April 1999 and has registered every album he has produced with the Society. He joined to protect his work against unauthorised copying, support royalty collection and help preserve Zambian music.

WHY COPYRIGHT REGISTRATION MATTERS

Tembo says copyright registration helps protect artists' intellectual property and enables them to earn royalties when their works are used on radio, television and other media. Copyright preserves authenticity and connects creative works to their rightful creators.

For music creators, understanding songwriting, composition and performance rights is essential. Registering works and maintaining accurate creator information helps safeguard ownership and supports recognition and remuneration.

"Copyright connects creative works to their rightful creators."

DR MATHEW TEMBO ON COPYRIGHT

BUILDING A CREATIVE LEGACY

Tembo's journey reflects the value of combining musical practice with scholarship and copyright awareness. His experience shows how registering works with ZAMCOPS can help protect creative output, support royalty collection and preserve an archive of Zambian music.

PART 04 · MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

CELEBRATING VETERAN MEMBERS

Some of ZAMCOPS' longest-serving members are still coming through our doors to register their works. Composers, authors and publishers who have been part of this Society for years are signing forms, updating their details and making sure every song they have written is on record.

Their commitment matters. Every registered work links a song to the person who created it, and that link is what allows royalties to reach the right owner.

Registration is not only for new artists. Our veterans show that a catalogue built over decades is still worth protecting, and that it is never too late to put each work on record.

To every veteran member who continues to register: thank you. Your work built this Society, and your registrations keep it strong for the next generation of creators.

VETERAN MEMBERS

Registering every work keeps a lifetime of music paying its creators.
